(Channeling begins)

Djwhal Khul here. Tashi delek.

Alright. We have what I consider to be a very important year, really, of heavenly configurations, this one being Saturn going retrograde in Libra. It will stay there for a few months, and then we have Jupiter in Aries and there will be a trine between those, and a few other things happening.

So, essentially, as we come upon the Chinese New Year, rabbit or cat, whichever way you look at it, the vibrations are going to be move swiftly in new directions. Don't try to hold on to old ways that no longer work. You know, if they're still working, fine, or modify them a bit, but if they're not working, definitely to let go of them.

Saturn is most often seen as a Teacher, showing you what lessons you need to get, etc. and the way in which it is positioned in your personal astrology chart and where your transits and your progressions are do give you some clues as how to work with it.

So if you want to look up some basic information or get a reading with an astrologer or something, that is probably a good thing to do. Really look at a yearly forecast even, for yourself personally, during this time period.

In the meantime, I'd say focus on fresh ideas, new concepts, open to receive information about things that you can't conceive of yet. Just really open to that kind of energy. And then the Libra influence can create some stalling or indecisiveness. The hint for that one is just make a decision. "I decided I'm going to have a glass of water," and then five minutes later you decided you'd rather have a cup of tea, or add a cup of tea to that.

It's just keep making decisions, don't stall in an indecisive place.

Alright. I think that should be helpful for this week. We did record this a little bit early but the full archive is on the web site TerriNewlon.com under Spirituality Articles and you'll be able to access the information.

Thank you and my love to you,

Djwhal Khul
