(Channeling begins)

Djwhal Khul here. Tashi Delek.

Alright. We are going to work with a blue color, kind of a deep blue. And then the other color I would recommend is a deep purple color and if you want to see them blending together, that can work quite nicely for you.

The topic that I am focused upon for this week is April Fool's Day and the symbology of the pattern there. Now I know sometimes it's considered a day to make jokes or pull pranks, that sort of thing.

Energetically it is more of a new beginning and associated with the number zero, which is the full circle, the full circle of Creation.

So from a metaphysical standpoint, I would recommend it be used to be light hearted within Self, certainly no mean pranks upon others but to be lighthearted within Self and to celebrate a new beginning of some sort. This is the beginning of your new year technically, or this is the beginning of Spring, that sort of thing.

And then of course May Day or Beltane is also a very important kind of sacred day as well. So we are in that time of year when we start with the Full Moon of the Christ, the Wesak Full Moon, and then the Full Moon of Humanity. And we've got April Fool's Day and May Day and all kinds of things symbolically coming up. It's the beginning of life, the beginning of new cycles.

So you might contemplate within your own life what new cycle you'd like to begin now. And again the deep blue, almost indigo, dark indigo color of a dark blue purple ink would be the color I would recommend using for this process.

Of course, we're also in a very big transformational energy for all of humanity. The consciousness is transforming to a higher vibration basically. And violet flame and the Invocation of St Germaine is also good for that.

Alright. As always, thank you and my love to you,

Djwhal Khul
