And here is Djwhal Khul's latest Spirituality Article, information complimentary every Thursday:

(Channeling begins)

Djwhal Khul here. Tashi Delek.

Alright. Well, we're past the 12-12-12 crystalline activation and we're approaching of course the Winter Solstice. I think what is important in this particular week is Uranus going direct in fiery Aries, where it's been retrograde, and doing so on a New Moon that is also in a fire sign, Sagittarius. So that's 12-13-2012 but the effects are going to be felt quite a bit longer than that.

Essentially, the energy levels have reached their peak maximum here on the planet, so everyone, animals included especially domestic pets, as well as the humans and all the other kingdoms are still trying to process the energies. And it may very well be feeling like an overload or some combustible stress of some sort inside the body.

Unfortunately it is a holiday time on top of everything else, so whenever possible just take it easy, go slower, don't pile on more things to do, in fact try to simplify as much as you possibly can.

Uranus also can be very unpredictable, that plus the energy saturation. What I see happening is things like you make plans and then you change them four or five times. Literally. Then maybe you turn on the television and there is no signal or the cell phone can't get a signal or email is hung up somewhere in the internet or you're going to meet someone and that plan changes several times.

It's just going to be upheavals, quick changes, lots of changes and it does take some patience and some grace to get through it and a good mood. So do your best with everything there.

And then the New Moon can bring new opportunities. It's a time when you can go within and examine what within yourself you would like to change. A very good time to have as much quiet time as possible and maybe write down something you're ready to get rid of and write down something you're ready to bring in.

Let me see what else I can say about that. The shadow side aspect of Humanity is getting flushed out due to the saturation of light. So quickly release it when it pops up its head and try not to give it a superpower state. You want to focus on the light, not on the dark.

Alright dear ones. As always, thank you and my love to you.
