(Channeling begins)

Djwhal Khul here. Tashi Delek.

Alright. We’ve just done our Quarterly Forecast for the second quarter and looked at the three Sacred Moons again. They’re March, April, May this year so Wesak is May 21st for the Teleseminar, I’m sorry April 21st for the Tele-Seminar, we have some distractions going on here, April 22 for a formal meditation gathering in Santa Barbara and we can hold several people if they pre-register and we get the space and then on April 23, which is a Saturday, we’ll do a very intimate gathering in Santa Barbara at the Life Vessel and that will take 14 students only. So the first in-person Wesak in quite a while.

Now what I want to talk about right now is the Middle Path and specifically how it applies in a political arena, which is an interesting way to look at it. We have a lot of juggling going on, not just the USA with all the candidates, but juggling around the planet politically and it does affect how the future unfolds.

So what I am encouraging you to do is to take the Middle Path as in nothing extreme, nothing bare minimal, nothing extravagant, just sort of the middle, balanced, and also to view things from a neutral perspective as much as possible.

So when you're listening to a speech or campaign or rhetoric or friends stating their political preference or concerns within a country about what might happen in another county, such as the United States, then really practice Middle Path. Just keep reminding yourself with that and asking Masters to help you practice.

Alright Dear Ones. As always, thank you and my love to you.
